Why Business Analyze is the leading BI Solution for SuperOffice

Business Intelligence (BI) software is an important asset for any business, but choosing the right solution isn't easy. You might be wondering what the differences are and which one matches your criteria most closely.

To help you make the best decision, we've listed ten important reasons why Business Analyze deserves your attention and consideration.

1

The leader for 15 years

During our 15 year SuperOffice partnership we have worked hard to bring customers the best value from CRM and Analytics in combination. Our developers work closely with SuperOffice and other data providers to give you the best architecture, data connectors, user experience and performance possible.

2

Easy to use

Business Analyze makes it easy for your entire organisation to access and share reports, and explore data on-demand. Users login and immediately access reports and analytics based on their user rights. There is no need to share links or dig through in-boxes. Should you want to export or print reports, that function is available.

3

Easy to get started

Business Analyze includes more than 50 out-of-the-box SuperOffice reports based on best practices with thousands of customers. Rather than long start up times or expensive report building, our standard reports provide immediate value.

4

Ahead of the curve

Business Analyze's cloud platform was the first BI tool to be certified in SuperOffice App Store, meeting strict security standards, and we continue to provide innovative and easy-to-use features that enhance SuperOffice's reporting and analytical capabilities.

5

Cloud and on-premise data connection

Business Analyze connects to on-premise and cloud data sources so you can structure data, do calculations and exploit the value of your data wherever it lies.

6

Easy to customise

To get maximum value from dashboards you will likely want to customise them to match different user needs. That's why Business Analyze is one of the most flexible tools on the market, enabling you to customize almost every aspect of dashboards, reports and visualisations.

7

No installed applications

Some business intelligence tools may require users to install and update applications on their PCs. With Business Analyze, everything you need is ready and available when you need it – without having to stop your workflow and download files.

8

Support across multiple devices and formats

If data is going to be valuable and motivating, it must be accessible and easy to interpret. Business Analyze enables you to make reports, insight and updates visible across all devices including desktop, mobile and office TV screens.

9

Easy single sign-on

When you have Business Analyze, your organisation only needs one set of credentials to access your data and insights. You can login with your SuperOffice ID. If you prefer, Active Directory (ADFS) and Business Analyze Authentication Services are also available - the choice is yours.

10

Outstanding Service and Support

Our in-house experts and local partners help you leverage data assets, provide the best user experience and profit from business intelligence at every step of your development. Because our partners are also part of the SuperOffice family, we provide expertise no one else can.

Business Analyze®
